In the case of other internship venues being compliant with the syllabus of Internship and after the permission has been granted by the Law Institute Director, the student can undergo internship on an individual basis in other courts or organizations located on the territory of Moscow.

A student can also choose another venue of internship (for example, judicial authorities at the place of residence), and foreign citizens have the right to complete their internship in their country of citizenship in order to study the legislation of their country in more detail, if this contributes to achieving the goals and objectives of the professional internship and the formation of students' competences listed in the internship syllabus.

The procedure for organizing individual internships is governed by the Regulations for individual field internships, approved by the Order № 432 of the RUDN University Rector of 10.05.2016. In order to have an individual internship, the student must write an application to the Director of the Law Institute before the internship with a request to allow the internship on the basis of the enterprise/organization of their choice, indicating the reason for the student's choice of the venue.

The application written by the student is endorsed by the internship supervisor of Criminal Law, Criminal Proceedings and Forensics, which constitutes the permission given by the Head of Internship regarding the compliance of the venue with the internship syllabus and its ability to help the student to form the necessary competences.

A student may be denied an internship on an individual basis if:

After receiving the permission of the Head of the Department to do the internship on an individual basis, the student signs an agreement between RUDN University and the enterprise/organization. The application and the internship agreement signed by the Head of the Department are submitted to the Law Institute Director.

For persons with group I, II or III disablement and persons with disabilities, the internship is completed while taking into account the specifics of their psychophysical development, individual capabilities and general health.
